WOODSTOCK NOTES.

T. S. VanVolkenburg closed his house on Lockwood hill this week, returning to New York Tuesday.

Mrs. T. W. D. Worthen was the guest of Mrs. Harold S. Dana Monday night, returning to Hanover Tuesday.

Tuesday's weather was remarkable for its variety, even for a section where meteorological conditions are always subject to change without notice. Rain and sunshine alternated every few minutes; the temperature rose and fell; then a high wind battered in and spoiled things for the rest of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mackenzie have moved here from Middlebury.

and are occupying a tenement in the Oliver Goodroad house on South street.

Mrs. Minnie E. Raymond, a former resident here, died at the home of her brother, Frank Woodward, at Cushman, near Amherst, Mass., Wednesday, Nov. 8. She had been in failing health for the past six months, but her serious illness was not known here and news of her death comes as a sad surprise to her friends. She was a daughter of the late John Woodward and Harriet Marsh Woodward and was born in Woodstock about 42 years ago. For 20 years or more she was in the dressmaking business here, leaving Woodstock a year ago last September to go to Massachusetts. She leaves a daughter Lillian who was with her mother at the time of her death. The body was brought here Friday, accompanied by Miss Woodward, and the funeral will be held on Sunday at 2:30 o'clock p. m. in St. James church. Mrs. Raymond's two brothers, Arthur and Frank, are expected here this afternoon.

C. B. Chase, recently returned from a visit to Boston, Worcester, and other places in Massachusetts.

Miss Ruth Griffin went to Boston Friday, and from there goes to Haverford, Penn., for a few weeks.

Town Clerk Simmons has issued a total of 283 hunters' licenses since Sept. 1. There is only one $15 license in the list.

Mrs. C. K. Mitchell and the Misses Mitchell returned to Malden, Mass., Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Merrill of Boston are visiting Mrs. F. B. Merrill.

Mrs. McVean is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frederick Chapman.

Hazen Reed, Percy Slayton and other young local leaders in aviation are busy these days in making model monoplanes, gliders and other things for the navigation of the air. Hazen Reed's latest model, made of wood, rubber and pasteboard, goes for altitude and at a try-out Thursday evening it cleared the street wires with inches to spare.

Dr. and Mrs. King of New York, friends of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Howard, are at the Inn.

The marriage engagement of Mr. Leo Bourdon, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bourdon, and Miss Margaret Neyland of Boston, was announced Sunday.

A very pleasant reception was given to the public school teachers by the W. C. T. U. at the home of Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Canfield Saturday afternoon, members of the school board and the pastors of the village churches and their wives also being guests. Assisting in receiving were Mrs. Luna Brown, Mrs. Maud Spear, Miss Converse, Mrs. Dora Pinney, Misses Mildred and Hazel Gilbert and Miss Annie Frye. An entertaining musical program included songs by Mrs. Swift and Mrs. Grace Pinney, piano solos by Miss Converse and Mrs. Luna Brown, and Mrs. Dora Pinney gave a reading.

The State library commission's figures show that Woodstock, with 10 books to a person, stands first among the six towns in the state most active in using books, according to population and library circulation.

The subject of Rev. H. L. Canfield's sermon at the Universalist church tomorrow will be "Kindness to Animals."

T. M. Harrigan expects to leave soon for a six weeks' trip to Germany, sailing on the George Washington of the North German Lloyd line.

Rev. C. H. Smith of Burlington, who was recently appointed superintendent of Vermont Anti-Saloon League, will speak at a union service of local protestant churches which will be held in the Congregational church tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. Those who have before heard Rev. Mr. Smith here will be glad to listen to him again and learn of his plans in the interest of the League, which are somewhat of a departure from former methods.

Mrs. A. F. Stockwell, who has been visiting friends in Perkinsville, Gascoets and Hartland, returned home Sunday.

Ch. G. will hold its annual ball early next month.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Clough were in Boston a few days this week.

BRIDGEWATER.

Our street lights were started last week Friday night and, to say that all are pleased with them would be putting it mildly. The contract called for a 32 c. p. lamp, but Mr. Stevens gave us a 40 c. p. lamp, which gives us the best lighted streets without doubt in the State.

A large number from the village took in the Grange Fair at Bridge water Corners, Saturday evening.

Wallace Jeffrey, 15 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jeffrey of Chester, was killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun at Weston Saturday afternoon.

Young Jeffrey was shot while helping in the drawing of logs for a Weston man named Marble. He was sitting on a log, and as Mr. Marble's son, who was also helping, started to walk away, Jeffrey remarked that he was going after partridges. He had the gun under his arm at the time, and as he rose to his feet he lost his balance and fell from the log. The gun was discharged, and Jeffrey received the charge in the body under the arm. He was able to regain his feet and started towards the Marble home, but died before he reached the house.

TRAINS THAT DON'T STOP.

An Endless Scow Railway Now Proposed in England.

In these days of frantic rush and scurry, when all things must continually speed up or succumb, it is interesting to read of a proposal that railway trains, particularly those on the tube lines, shall never stop running during the hours the service is opened to the public.

It is a fact that the power required to stop a train is greater than that necessary to start it, and, apart from this consideration, the stoppages account for at least half the time occupied by a journey on the underground railways.

Briefly, the idea is to attach the cars to a kind of endless screw. The screw shaft would run for the entire length of the line, but the thread would be widely varied. For instance, on the open stretches of line between the stations the thread would be extended so that speed would be increased to its highest point. On the sections in which there were stations, however, the thread would be compressed, so that the train would slow down to a speed not exceeding three miles an hour.

At this pace it would be possible for every passenger to enter or leave the train while it was in motion, and, although there might be occasional stumbles at first, the public would be speedily educated up to the point of agility required.

A screw thread railway would travel at a speed of 25 per cent more than the present electric vehicles, and neither brakes nor signals would be required.—London Answers.

MUZZLES ON DOGS.

They Kept Hydrophobia Out of England For Twenty Years.

A peculiarly forceful argument in favor of muzzles to prevent dogs from biting has just developed in England, where, after twenty years' immunity from hydrophobia, a case of that dreaded disease has been reported. Robert Bowers, who had charge of a pack of foxhounds in Wiltshire, was bitten on the hand by a fox at the end of the run at the close of last season. The bite was not considered serious at the time. The wound quickly healed, and Mr. Bowers soon forgot the incident.

A few days ago he developed symptoms of hydrophobia and died in agony.

Since the eighties there has been a law in England compelling the muzzling of dogs and the quarantining for three months of all dogs entering the country. Unpopular as that law was and still is, it has undoubtedly been productive of much good. During the past twenty years, with the exception of the case of Mr. Bowers, there has not been a case of hydrophobia in that country. The disease was considered to have been completely stamped out. It is held that if the fox that bit Mr. Bowers was suffering from hydrophobia it could only have been infected through being bitten by a dog. The muzzling laws are being enforced more strictly than ever now.—New York World.

A Monument and a Squabble.

In the course of its deliberations at Leoben in June, 1908, the International telegraphic congress voted to erect at Berne, Switzerland, a monument to commemorate the founding of the telegraphic union, at a cost of 170,000 francs, the competing sculptors to receive prizes to the amount of 20,000 francs. About 100 plans were submitted, and the jury awarded the first prize and the contract to Giuseppe Romagnoli. A protest has now been entered by three members of the jury, whose "artistic conscience" would not allow them to endorse the verdict of the majority, and a letter from Berne says that the matter has been made "further interesting by the fact that there is an exhibition at the local riding academy of the various designs and models, where the citizens may see for themselves and vote as to which one they would have for their city."

FOSS GETS IN.

Revised figures of Tuesday's state election in Massachusetts give Governor Foss a slight gain, making his plurality 8008. Mr. Foss is the second Democratic governor to be re-elected in Massachusetts during the past half century.

With the exception of Louis A. Frothingham, candidate for governor, the Republican state ticket was elected.

The vote for governor and lieutenant governor follows: Governor, Foss, 210,728; Frothingham, 202,720; lieutenant governor, Robert Luce, Republican, 208,700; David I. Walsh, Democratic, 201,950.

PHILADELPHIA MACHINE BUMPED.

In one of the most bitterly fought elections in the history of Philadelphia, Rudolph Blankenburg, the independent republican, defeated Geo. H. Earle, jr., the republican organization candidate for mayor, by a plurality of more than 4000.

The normal Republican majority is about 75,000.

RHODE ISLAND STANDS PAT.

Every member of the Republican state ticket in Rhode Island was elected and Governor Pothier was re-elected for his fourth term. His plurality was more than 7000.

China's New Coast Light.

One of the finest coast lights in the world, for its size, has been erected by the Chinese Imperial maritime customs at Chilan rock, about eighty miles north of Hongkong. The work of installation has been going on for about two years. Some idea of its power may be gained when it is stated that it can be clearly observed at a distance of twenty-four miles. The illuminating apparatus is group flashing of the first order, showing three white lightning flashes in quick succession every two seconds. The approximate power of the flash is 490,000 candles.

Heated Carpets.

A patent has been taken out lately in Germany in connection with running fine wires through a carpet in parallel lines connected with an ordinary electric light current. The wires become warm, and in larger sizes of carpets the temperature can be regulated at will. After the current is turned off the carpet remains warm for two or three hours, and a small foot rug may in this way be placed hot in a carriage in winter and keep the feet warm without additional current during an ordinary drive.

Lifting the Limit.

President Taft once worked as a reporter for a Cincinnati newspaper for $12 a week. Recently he was offered by a magazine $2 a word if he would write an article for the publication. He declined the proposition.—Popular Magazine.
